Important things to know about College Credit Plus...

Students must successfully complete and pass course to earn the credit.

If a student withdraws after the drop deadline or fails the course, the college and high school transcript will reflect the final grade. The student will also be responsible for the cost of the tuition for the course.

The high school transcript must match the college transcript. The high school course will be weighted as the highest weight offered in that subject area.

There are course eligibility rules that students must follow. Students will work with a college advisor after being admitted to the college to plan the best pathway for their specific postsecondary goals.

Many students try to take general education courses during high school to lessen the amount of time and money they will spend in college.

The best way to plan what CCP courses your child should take is to look up the college and major your child is interested in. This can be found on the college website.

Ohio Transfer Module Certificate

Cincinnati State

- The Ohio Transfer Module (OTM) is a set of general education coursework recognized by the state of Ohio as transferable to any public institution of higher education.
- Students earning an associate's degree in an Applied Science or Applied Business field who plan to continue in a bachelor's degree program can add the Ohio Transfer Module Certificate to provide a complete set of transferable general education courses.
- Students work with an advisor to ensure that the courses chosen for the OTM Certificate meet the needs of the institution where the student will complete their bachelor's degree.
- Some institutions will accept the OTM as a "block credential," allowing students to transfer to a bachelor's degree program with all general education courses considered completed.
